Certified Backflow Assembly Testers

Many companies offer Backflow Assembly Testing Services. These types of companies typically include plumbing, irrigation, mechanical, fire sprinkler contractors as well as specialty backflow testing companies. The City does not recommend nor endorse a specific company or tester over another. For your convenience we have compiled the following list of companies, which have provided specific and current annual credential information to the City as of July 31, 2018. Credential information includes state certification (backflow assembly tester), current City of Bothell business license, and current test kit equipment calibration. The documentation for each company was complete as of July 31, 2018. Please feel free to contact any qualified company/tester of your choice and request verification of current documentation.
